

Noongar Water Knowledge in the Djarlgarro Beelier catchment

Implications for land use and water planning in Perth

WALGA Aboriginal Forum

'Doyntj Doyntj Come Together'

22 September 2021

Gail Barrow, Sharon Wood-Kenney, Cristina Ramalho

Project's journey

National Environmental Science Program (NESP) has a strong focus on Indigenous Engagement

Project emerged within the Clean Air and Urban Landscapes Hub (CAUL)

Project was informed at a meeting with several Noongar leaders, NESP-CAUL researchers & Indigenous Advisory Group (Aug)

Engagement with other Noongar individuals & stakeholder organizations for co-design of project proposal & funding acquisition

Project pitched to Water Sensitive Transition Network (Feb)

Two Noongar research officer positions advertised (Dec)

Formal start of the project with employment of Noongar research officers (Jun)

Project delivery (Jun)

2018

2019

2020

2021

2022

People & organizations

Clean Air and Urban Landscapes Hub (National Environmental Science Program)

The University of Western Australia

Water Corporation

Department of Biodiversity, Conservation and Attractions

Department of Water and Environmental Regulation

Department of Planning, Lands and Heritage

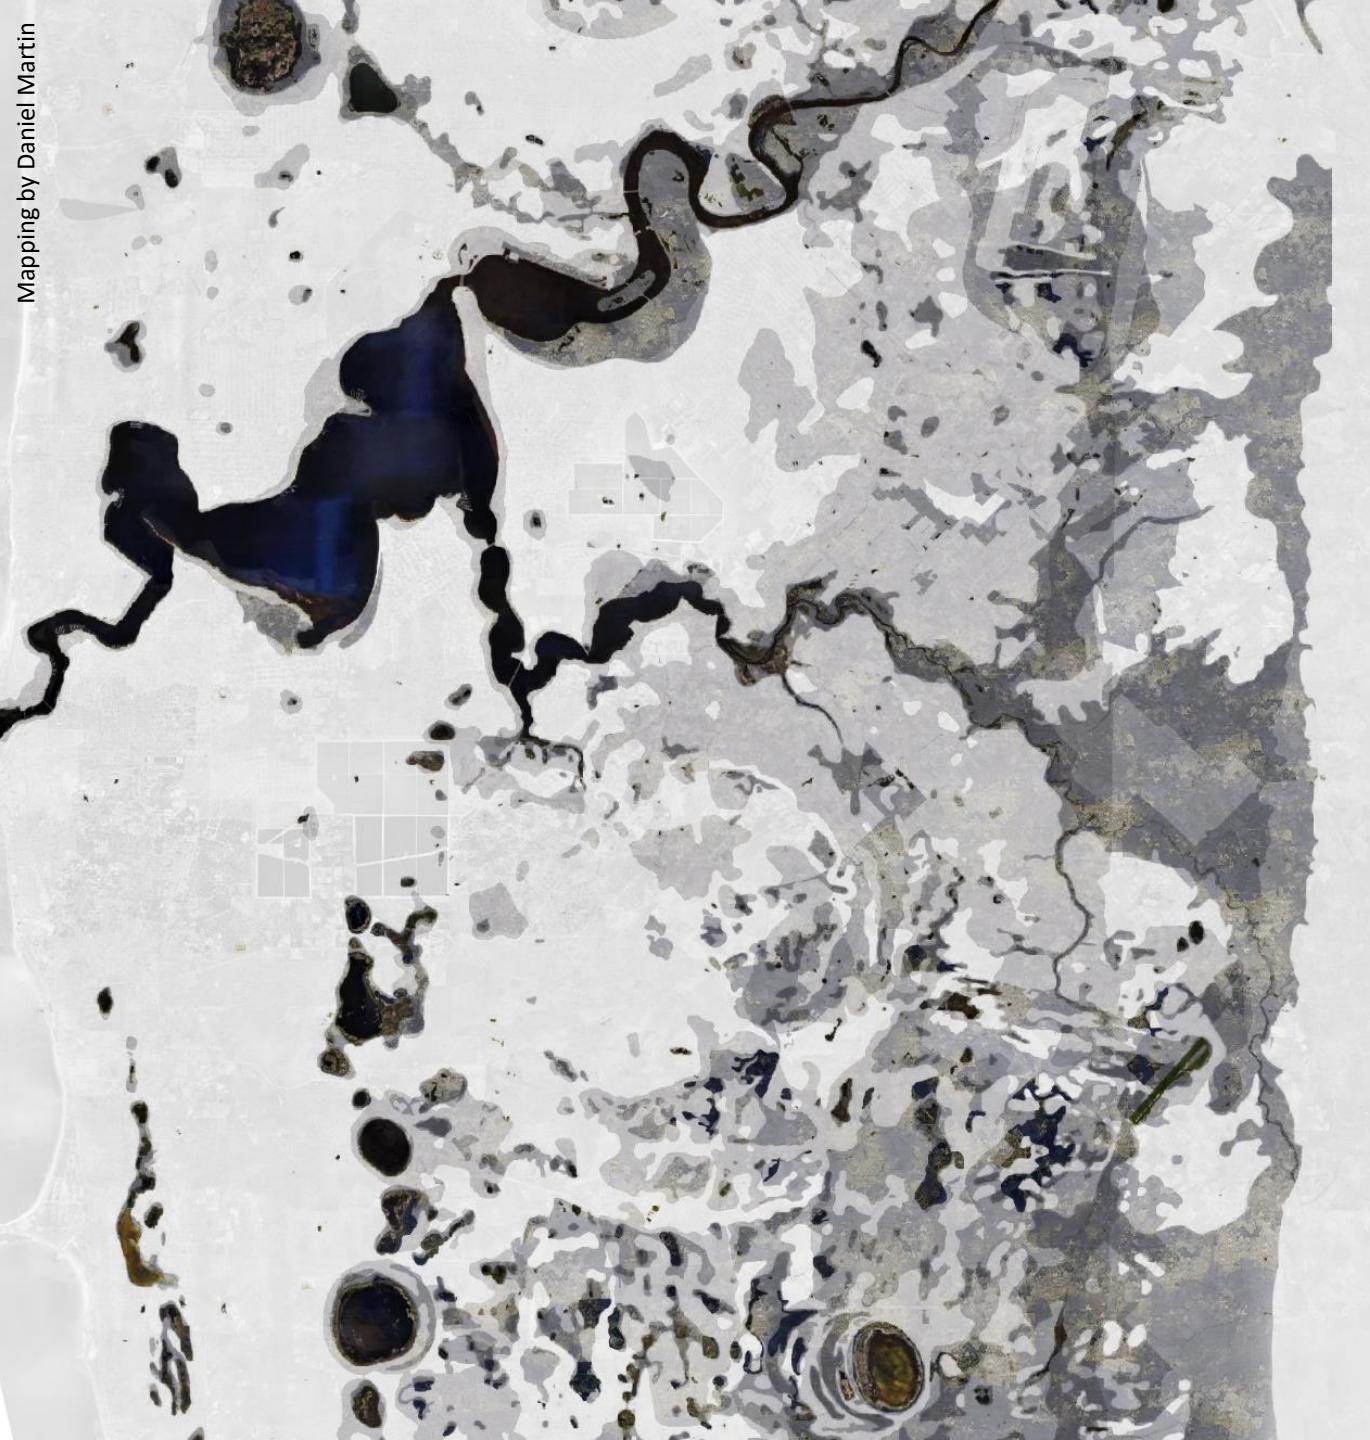

Department of Communities

City of Canning

City of Gosnells

Perth NRM

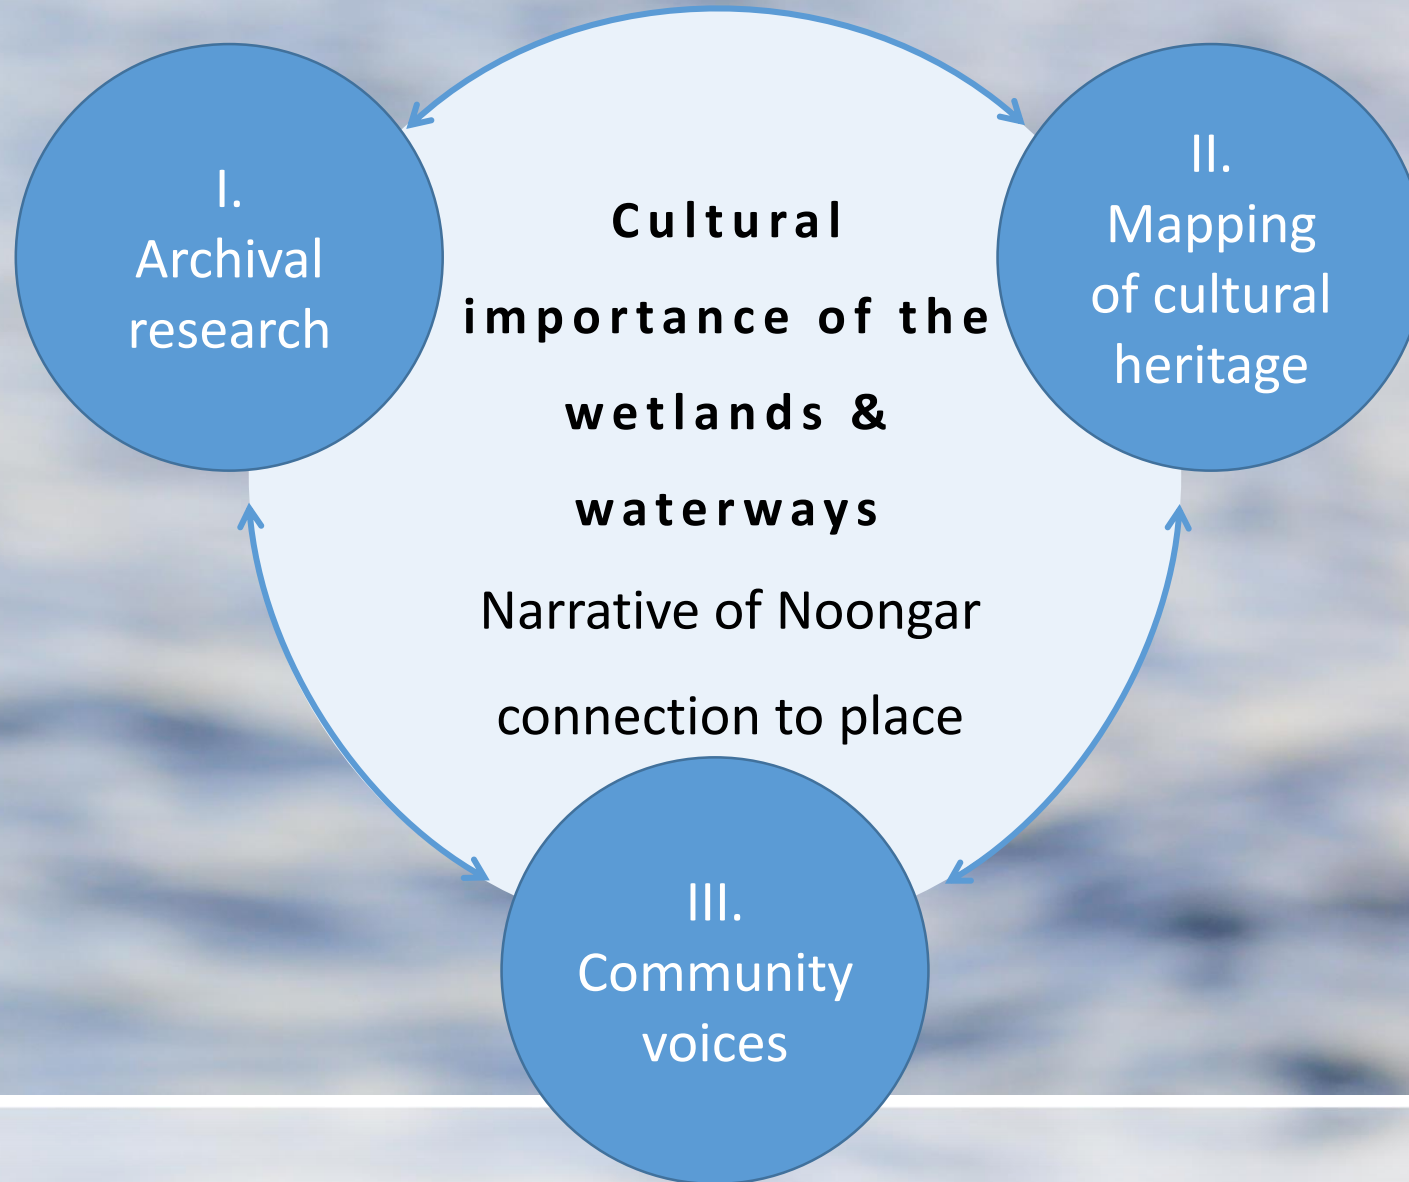

Urbaqua

Study area

The Djarlgarro Beelier* catchment, from the confluence with the Derbal Yerrigan to its birth place in the hills & including all wetlands, tributaries & their catchments

Three main project components

Please get in touch with the team for any questions or suggestions:

Cristina E. Ramalho – Cristina.Ramalho@uwa.edu.au

Gail Barrow – Gail.barrow@uwa.edu.au

Sharon Wood-Kenney - Shazz.wood-kenney@uwa.edu.au

Thank you for your interest!